

Cain Contracting, Inc.

A Service Disabled Veteran Corporation

Project: University of Baltimore, School of Communications

Location: Baltimore, MD

Project Overview

Cain Contracting was awarded the 70,000 SF interior fit-out of an historic landmark building acquired by the University of Baltimore for use as the School of Communications. Located in the heart of downtown Baltimore, the 5-story building was completely overhauled to house the School's computer graphics laboratories, A/V laboratories, audio booths, editing rooms, production studios, 60-person tiered viewing room, as well as faculty and graduate offices. Cain's scope of work included drywall, acoustical ceilings, and carpentry services, as well as the renovation and restoration of the building's ornamental five-story circular stairway and adjacent historic lobby.

